Public Lecture Series

Title: 「學習日語和世界各地的連繫」

- Objectives: aims to provide students with current information about the globalization features of Japanese language learning all over the world. Mr. Saito Makoto, an expert on Japanese language teaching, dispatched by the Japan Foundation to Hong Kong in May 2018, wants to share with our students his experience of Japanese language teaching in countries such as France, Syria and Ukraine. Through his rich overseas Japanese teaching experience, he has been very impressed with the feature of 'globalization of Japanese language learning'. He would like to inspire our students that Japanese language learning is one of important tools to make friends in different parts of the world through using the language itself.

- Date, Time and Venue:

16 November 2018; Time: 14:00pm—15:00pm; Venue: 3610, LI

Speaker: Mr. Makoto Saito, Japanese Language Teaching Expert and Advisor, the Japan Foundation.

- Outcomes:

Around 70 students attended the public lecture and were fascinated by the guest lecture of Mr. Saito on his previous teaching experience. Different from Hong Kong, the Japanese language learners in other places could not read or distinguish 'Japanese kanji' easily as the writing style is completely different from their mother-tongue. However, those learners have been working hard to remember how to write 'kanji' so as to understand the relationship between Japanese 'kanji' and Japanese culture. Many students have expressed that they should spend more time to get a good command of the Japanese language as they have less learning impediments like those learners in France, Syria and Ukraine.
